Meghan Wallace is a member of the Health and Business Sections. She focuses her practice on corporate law and transactional matters for businesses, health care and nonprofit organizations.

During law school, Meghan served as an intern in the Office of Risk Management at the Medical College of Wisconsin. She was a member of the Marquette Pro Bono Honor Society and a legal extern for the Marquette Volunteer Expungement Clinic. She also served as a Judicial Extern for the United States Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit, a Legal Intern for Business and Professional People for Public Interest (BPI) and was a tutor for the Academic Success Program Leader for Civil Procedure. During her undergraduate years, Meghan's Senior Capstone Thesis (Honors with Distinction) focused on a comparative study of health systems on a global scale and she worked as an intern for Indiana Legal Services, where she researched the opioid crisis and its effect on Indiana children.
